The Imperialiſts on the other Hand have prepared 4 Batteries againſt the Caſtle, one of which began to fire the 13th, and has diſmounted two of the Cannon which the Enemy had pointed againſt the Town, and obliged them to quit the great Tower, where ſeveral of their Men were killed by the Shot from that Battery: A ſecond, which is erected within a few Paces of the Covered-way, was finiſhed this Day; and the other two will be ready to fire very ſoon. More Artillery and Ammunition is ſent for from Pavia, and other Places, it being reſolved to carry on this Siege with all poſſible Vigour; and the Weakneſs of the Gariſon, with the Want they are in of ſeveral Neceſſaries, give us Hopes it may ſoon be brought to a good Iſſue.
